

Marc Robinson: Curriculum Vitae

Dr. Marc Robinson is a consultant, researcher and blogger specializing in public finance. He is a member of the OECD Advisory Panel on Budgeting and Public Expenditures, and of the IMF Panel of Fiscal Experts. His website and blog are to be found at pfmresults.com.

Dr. Robinson is author of Bigger Government: The Future of Government Expenditure in Advanced Economies, which was listed by the Financial Times as one of the best economics books of 2020.

As a consultant, Marc has advised more than thirty countries – ranging from European Union members to middle and low-income countries – on how to improve their budgeting and public finances. He works directly for governments, as well as on behalf of key international organizations (World Bank, IMF and Inter-American Development Bank).

Marc has been a keynote speaker at many conferences and symposiums held by diverse entities including the European Union, OECD, APEC, NATO and a number of ministries of finance. He also has extensive past experience as an executive trainer, and has presented courses to senior civil servants at the IMF Institute, the World Bank and Duke University.

Marc has published over thirty books and articles on budgeting and public financial management issues. These include a forthcoming monograph on “Public Finances after the COVID-19 Pandemic”, commissioned by the OECD.

Earlier in his career, Marc was a staff economist in the IMF’s Fiscal Affairs Department, a senior civil servant and a professor of economics in Australia. He holds a PhD from the Australian National University, a Masters in Economics from the University of Melbourne, and a BA (first class honors) from the University of Sydney.

In addition to English, Dr. Robinson speaks and writes fluent French, and intermediate-level Spanish. He holds Australian and Swiss citizenship.
